PUBLICATION ETHICS

Research Integrity

ZANKHANA International E-Journal is committed to promoting honesty, transparency, accountability, and responsible research practices. Authors must present their research findings accurately and avoid fabrication, falsification, and other forms of research misconduct.

Originality

All submitted manuscripts must represent original scholarly work and contribute meaningfully to the relevant field of knowledge. Authors must properly acknowledge all sources and disclose any relevant prior publication or overlapping work.

Plagiarism Prevention

The journal does not accept plagiarism or inappropriate reuse of published material. Manuscripts may be screened using appropriate similarity-detection tools. Similarity reports will be evaluated by the editorial team, and manuscripts involving plagiarism may be returned for correction or rejected in accordance with the journal's Plagiarism Policy.

Authorship

Authorship must reflect genuine and substantial scholarly contributions to the research and manuscript. All listed authors must approve the final manuscript and agree to its submission. Individuals who do not meet authorship criteria should be acknowledged appropriately. Changes in authorship must be justified and approved by all concerned authors.

Conflict of Interest

Authors, editors, and peer reviewers must disclose any financial, professional, institutional, or personal interests that could influence, or appear to influence, their work or editorial judgment. The journal will take appropriate steps to manage disclosed conflicts and maintain impartiality.

Peer Reviewer Ethics

Peer reviewers must evaluate manuscripts objectively, fairly, and confidentially. Reviews should be constructive and based on scholarly quality, originality, methodological soundness, and relevance. Reviewers must disclose potential conflicts of interest, avoid using unpublished information for personal advantage, and report suspected ethical concerns to the editor.

Corrections

The journal is committed to maintaining the accuracy and integrity of the scholarly record. If significant errors are identified in a published article, the journal may publish a correction or clarification after appropriate evaluation. Authors are encouraged to notify the editorial office promptly upon discovering material errors in their published work.

Retractions

The journal may retract a published article when serious concerns, such as unreliable findings, plagiarism, data fabrication or falsification, or significant ethical violations, undermine the integrity of the publication. Retractions will be handled transparently, with an appropriate explanation linked to the original article wherever practicable.

Complaints and Appeals

ZANKHANA International E-Journal welcomes reasoned complaints and appeals concerning editorial decisions, peer review, publication ethics, and alleged misconduct. Submissions must be made in writing to the editorial office with relevant details and supporting evidence. All complaints and appeals will be considered fairly, confidentially, and impartially, wherever practicable.

Ethical Commitment

ZANKHANA International E-Journal is committed to upholding academic integrity, transparent editorial practices, responsible authorship, and ethical scholarly publishing. All authors, editors, and reviewers are expected to comply with these principles and the journal's applicable publication policies.
